The weight of a woman's brain in Slavonic race, is greater than that of a man's. Among the Germanic peoples the brain weight of the seres is equal, and in the Latin nations the brain of the man is heavier than that of the woman. Quantity does not necessarily imply quality, but in this case, worth follows weight.

"For intelligence and resolution," says M.
Anatole Leroy-Beaulieu, the most recent and They send men to us who want us to learn to the most fascinating of writers on Russia, and the Russians, "as well as for education, and the Russians, "as well as for education, and the rank she holds in the family, the Russian woman is already the equal of the man. Among the Siav men is often mobile flexible, ductile and impressionable to an excess, but, as if in compensation, woman, in mind and character, possesses so much strength, energy character, possesses so much strength, energy -in one word, virility-that without losing either her grace or her charm, she exercise often a singular and irresistable as cendency."
This ascendency, frequently remarked in dip-lomacy, is not less remarkable in the revolutionary movement which at the moment snp. and our yeller dogs, our wigwams and our plies many of the youth of Russia with a terrible substitute for religion, which is welnigh extinguished in the Orthodox Church bell river now, and when the autumn comes we neath the superincumbent load of ritual, formality and officialism. No one can have paid even the most cursory attention to the numerous criminal processes which shed a ray of such grim'y lurid light upon the fermenting mass of Russian discontent without being impressed by the prominent part played by wo-men in the work of revolution, Sophie Bardin, of Tamboff, a young lady of noble birth, was the first to familiarize the public with the spectacle of a Russian revolutionary heroine. studies and passed her final examinations when great undeacency. she had decided to dedicate her life to the service of "her brothers." At eighteen years of age she went to Zurich to study the labor question in Switzerland and in Germany, and to sit at the feet of Bakunin, "the apostle of universal destruction" and the prophet of stratchy. She soon returned to Russia confirmed in the faith as to the necessity for reshe had decided to dedicate her life to the sermodeling society, and resolved to lose no time in setting to work. She assumed the name of a soldier's widow, and began to work at daily But the most original was that of an Irish wages in a factory, the better to be able to carry out the work of proselytism among the disinherited of the world. The self-devotion and self-sacrificing enthusiasm which led a woman reared in the midst of luxury, and educated as Russian women only are educated. woman reared in the mastst of luxury, and educated as Russian women only are educated to don the coarse garments of the factory and spend her life among the illiterate vulgar, not from any belief in a divine command, but solely from "love for the others," are by no means unfamiliar in Russia. Sophie Bardin, or rather the twenty-two year old widow Zaizgel, was not long normitted to conduct her expectations. The foreman responded: "Oh, my Lord, you do not know that fellow, but we do. He is the most notorious tinr in the whole country, and no twelve men who know his character can believe a word he says." So the prisoner escaped, as the jury adhered their verdict.

Of the verdicts in the United States we may will see the college of the country fair the following her will not applied to the country of the country, and not know that fellow, but we do. She conducted her own defence, and came in, found the hog not guilty, and recom of 1877. She conducted her own defence, and surprised everyone by the courage and passion with which she pleaded her cause. Thousands of copies of her address were sold in St. Petersburg, and the fate of the eloquent speaker gave force and emphasis to her closing words:

"The association will avenge me, and its vengeance will be terrible. Let your hangenen and judges massacre and destroy us now, during the short time that face is still on your side. We set against you our moral might, and that will triumph. Progress, Liberty and and that will trinmph. Progress, Liberty and of your own, get the one the last jury used. Equality light for us, and through these ideas no bayonet can thrust" Hor eloquence ninth degree." availed not, and Sophie Bardin was sent to An Indiana jury recently returned a written labor in the Siterian mines for nine years -a verdict of "Blode tu peces bi the biler bustin," dreary expiation for one year's propagandism of revolutionary doctrine

Sophie Bardin is in Siberia; Vera Sassulitch is in exile; Sophie Peroffski is dead, But although the three leading actors in the tracic drama are thus accounted for, there are many others whose names appear and re-appear in the blood stained annuls of Russian sedition. Of these we catch but passing glimpses, some of which, it must be admitted, LARGE AND WELL-SELECTED CARGOES are by no means calculated to attract. Olga Rassoffski, who sent a bullet through the Orders left at G. West's Shooling Shop head of a police-sergeunt; Anna Makharevna, who fled with a passport forged by two other revolutionary women from the punishment due for her share in the vitriolization of the spy Garonevitch; and Achristoff, the seventeenterronevisch; and Achristoff, the seventeen-year-old priest's daughter who made love to tended to. him into the hands of the Nihilists, who cut off his ears and sliced off his nose, are among those who, ruthless as destroying angels, keep up the Red Terror in Russia. Of others, such as the daughter of Major-General Herzfeld, who was arrested at Kieff, of Vera Panyutm, Larissa Saradnefi, and Olga Shidaski, little more is known than their names and their fate. The case of Jude Krakoffski, the FENCING AND PICKETS daughter of a university official of Kieff, who was remotely implicated in the affair of Tchigirinski in 1877, and brought to memory the uther day by the confination of her sentence of banishment to Siberia for the heinous offence of having destroyed compromising papers instead of handing them over to the police, and of being in possession of the for-bidden "Story of a Peasant," by MM. Erckmann and Chatrian "She was only twenty years old, but all Rieff," says her admirer, who predicts that ere long her statue will rise upon the site of the fortress of her native city, "knew her charming smile, and the immense treasure of her charity toward the poor." Still more remarkable was the case of Victoria Goukoffski, daughter of a medical dispenser of Odesas, who, on hearing that the Nihilist Kovalsky had been sentenced to death, cre-ated a riot in which two persons were killed by the soldiers, led a mob of red-bloused men through the public streets, and addres of them with revolutionary eloquence from a stand in the middle of the boulevards. She was arrested; but was rescued by the crowd, and made her escape, only to be arrested again the fellowing mouth and sentenced to Siberia for life. This week, however, the news reaches us that she has terminated her misery by suicide.

A Model Indian Speech.

It is not exactly medeled after the speech of the celebrated Wringo Chief Logar, which Jefferson has immortalized for the school boys, But, then, the Washington Copilal is not history, and Donn Piatt is not Jefferson. So

BLINDS here is the great and only Logan:
On Monday next, the same being to-morrow, a large concluve of Indian chiefs will be held at the Interior Department. They come to have a friendly pow-wow over the question of changing their receivation. Through the coursesy of Standing Bear's private secretary the Capital has been favored with the speech that celebrated Sioux chieftain will deliver on the occasion, and which will be submitted in manuscript to Secretary Kirkwood. The render will observe that Standing Bear speaks sa if he was addressing his own people at home. This is an idiosyncrasy of the Indian character. He says: Gentlemen of the conference, warriors and pule faced snooks from the land of the rising sun: My people are cerdially invited by the white father to pick up their furniture and go West to grow up with the country.

We are asked to leave our lands and take up some claims in another locality under the desert land act. The white father tells his children to scnot, He says he needs these lands in his business, and asks the red man to gather his papocaes and take a little excursion into a strange land.
